

RAINBOW MOSHO

A.D.D. - adventures, discoveries, dreams

2ND BOOK RELEASED

Our latest creation is out. Rainbow Rabbit Meets Oracle the Alphabet Creature is well received. A unique alphabet book with original drawings is becoming a crowd pleaser. Go to our website www.autismhappykingdom.com or Amazon worldwide.

ART OF THE HUMAN SPIRIT

<https://autismhappykingdom.com/>
HTTPS://RAINBOWMOSHO.COM

THE REVIEW IN CANADA

Art of the Human Spirit: during the pandemic, art became the key to survival and sharing feelings

Rainbow Mosho is a 12-year-old transgender on the autism spectrum, but she is also an artist and entrepreneur. Rainbow's birth name is Thomas V. Moshopoulos, but one day she asked her mother if she could be called "Rainbow" instead because she so loved colors. Her mother agreed.

Like her mom, Rainbow and her mother Yveline Calderon collaborated to publish "What I Gained and Lost During Covid-19". In a recent interview, Yveline commented that art has been a tool to survive, to communicate and to feel human, since the way to exist.

March through July 2020 was particularly difficult for Rainbow because her beloved grandma was seriously ill, she and her mother had to travel to Florida to help take care of her grandmother and finally to witness her passing. In doing Rainbow experienced the loss of someone so close to her.

Her art powerfully expresses her understanding of human emotion in vibrant colors and whimsical drawings. Rainbow's creativity demonstrates as the title of her book confirms, her losses and pain during COVID-19. The loss of her beloved grandmother was the pain of an angel in heaven, the loss of her voice, her confidence and being herself a lot more. This young woman, who stopped talking at 10 months, is now a very articulate speaker. The verbal content of the book resulted from long interviews by Yveline with Rainbow about her art. Her favorite painting is "The Tree of Life on page 13, and of this picture, Rainbow says: "Every color, shape and emotion keep me real and make me a very special person." That she is!

Rainbow's mother Yveline Calderon has a definite connection to Chameleon Township. In 1984-85 she resided in L'Orignal with the family of Helen and Ray MacLeod while attending Ecole secondaire catholique régionale de Hawkesbury and experiencing the great Canadian North as a foreign exchange student from Puerto Rico. Since then she has lived in its counties and traveled to another 27.

Following this link <https://www.wrdeamcoasttv.com/rainbow-mosho-art-creative-therapeutic> to learn more about Rainbow and how to order her book as well as other art work. A copy of "What I Gained and Lost During Covid-19" can be found in both the Chameleon and Hawkesbury libraries. Rainbow's own book called Rainbow Rabbit Meets the Alphabet Creature is in

This article was submitted by L'Orignal resident Eva Levesque.

EAST NASHVILLE ART SHOW

Meet me, buy my art, stay for the giveaway!!!

Friday April 16

5-9pm

The Marketplace in East Nashville

400 Davidson St

Thank you for buying my books.

Remember to share your review or creature creations to rainbowmosho@autismhappykingdom.com

Fox, CBS and NBC affiliates picked up our story. What an honor.

MARCH 2021

MORE A.D.D.

Go to Etsy, find Izzybizzybooks and get the Africa or Polar regions books -- My art is on them!!!

My partner Linc-d supports creating opportunities for artists with autism and other developmental disabilities. They place my art on gorgeous merchandise!

I created this doodle for a contest. The theme is... What makes me strong...

I submitted my Art for a bedding contest. My theme was TRAVEL

Visit our website www.autismhappykingdom.com

<https://linktr.ee/RainbowMosho>